LEE COUNTY, FL (U.S.A.)– In addition to great, year-round weather, shell-drenched beaches and the sparkling Gulf of Mexico, The Beaches of Fort Myers & Sanibel in southwest Florida continues to provide new experiences for visitors to Florida's unspoiled island destination. For the latest vacation information, visit www.FortMyersSanibel.com

Save the date and plan ahead: Hobie 16 World Championship in 2019

Hobie 16 World Championships is returning to the USA, after 35 years of events being held in other beautiful locations worldwide. And it is coming to the Beaches of Fort Myers & Sanibel Nov. 1-16, 2019.

Sailors from around the world will compete in three world championship disciplines: Women's, Youth and Open, and three additional disciplines; Masters Cup, Grand Masters Cup and Great Grand Masters Cup.

South Seas Island Resort will host more than 1,000 athletes and 336 teams on 60 new Hobie Cat racing catamaran sailboats for 16 sailing days. Sailors from 30 countries are expected to attend. In past world events, as many as 7,000 people have attended the championships.

The Hobie 16 World Championships is the only sailboat class in the world to supply 60 brand-new identical Hobie Cats, 16-foot catamaran sailboats, for all competitors to race. Hobie Cat Company will provide the boats that will be used exclusively on the racecourse located just off Sunset Beach at the north end of Captiva Island. www.hobieworlds.com.

Pedal your way through Sanibel's history

In addition to its bike-friendly paths, Sanibel Island bikers can now enjoy the new Sanibel Heritage Trail. A series of 22 panels throughout the island tell the story of Sanibel's historic past including commercial farming, the Sanibel School, the Sanibel Lighthouse and much more. The trail is an easy ride and is concentrated on the east end and middle of the island. There is no start or finish location but many like to use the Sanibel Historical Museum and Village as a beginning point. www.sanibelmuseum.org

Everglades Wonder Gardens in Bonita Springs broke ground on a new tea house that will take the form of a Victorian-era solarium built in France with ornately crafted iron and glass panes. The Tea House and the other pavilions are expected to immerse visitors in the story of pollination with butterflies, flowering orchids, and tropical birds such as bananaquits and Australian lorikeets. Tea will be served in the new Tea House and it will also be available as a venue for weddings and other special occasions. www.evergladeswondergardens.com

Grab your binoculars!

Add to your life-list and take advantage of the seasonal populations of snowbirds that grace our beaches, wetlands and mangrove forests. Lee County counts around 250 different species of birds. Check out these spots along the Great Florida Birding and Wildlife Trail (floridabirdingtrail.com) to watch and photograph birds – from sweet, tiny warblers to majestic roseate spoonbills - during prime Florida birding season.

J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge, Sanibel Island. Easy access to close-up birds have made this a hot spot for birders since it first opened in 1945. Merely cruising along Wildlife Drive, you can check off a number of species, some – like the shy, elusive mangrove cuckoo – quite rare. You needn't be a birder, however, to love watching the behaviors and antics of the white pelican – visiting in the winter – and "dancing" reddish egret. Most iconic, roseate spoonbills flock in the wetlands year-round, but most abundantly this time of year. To see birds coming in to roost, plan a sunset nature cruise or kayak paddle into Tarpon Bay. fws.gov/dingdarling

Corkscrew Swamp Sanctuary, south Lee County. The designated "gateway" to the Great Florida Birding and Wildlife Trail's South Trail, Corkscrew Swamp was originally best known for its colonies of nesting American woodstorks. The nesting season can be iffy, dependent on all the right weather and water conditions, but birders get their rewards in the winter and spring, when limpkins, warblers, vireos and painted buntings are the stars of the show. corkscrew.audubon.org

San Carlos Bay - Bunche Beach Preserve, south Fort Myers. Mangrove and beach habitat combine here to provide legendary birding opportunities. Low tide and evening's roost are the best times to see flocks of black skimmers, plovers, white ibis, roseate spoonbills and even the occasional bald eagle. Saturday Bird Patrol Tours (birdpatrol.org) take place throughout the season www.leeparks.org

Six Mile Cypress Slough Preserve, Fort Myers. From the 1.2-mile boardwalk, you can easily spot gallinules, moorhens, pileated woodpeckers, white and glossy ibises, belted kingfishers, bald eagles, ospreys and a variety of egrets and herons. The most determined birders lurk on the observation decks and blinds the park provides. In the interpretive center, watch a short video about bird migration. leeparks.org

Lighthouse Beach Park, Sanibel Island. In spring and fall, when birds are migrating, a phenomenon known as “fall out” happens at points of land that provide the aviary travelers a rest stop after long flights. Lighthouse Beach is one such stop for weary wingers. Watch and listen at sunrise for small birds in transit, such as rare warblers (more than 35 species have been recorded), flycatchers and indigo and painted buntings. Birders also report peregrine falcon, brown pelican, and shorebird sightings. www.mysanibel.com

Caloosahatchee Regional Park, Alva. A variety of riverfront habitats means good diversity. Look in the flatwoods for red-shouldered hawks and barred owls. Along the park’s biking and horse trails, birders spot wild turkey and swallow-tailed kites. leeparks.org

Mound House Eco Tours, Fort Myers Beach

The recently renovated house on Estero Bay serves as a museum showcasing Calusa artifacts and exhibits. And if you have ever wondered about exactly what is inside a shell mound, there is a huge cutaway of a mound that you will find fascinating.

There are some new ways to explore this unique historic attraction. Board the Estero Bay Express at Fish-Tale Marina and travel the bay to Mound House and then on to Mound Key, known as the capital of the Calusa. At both sites, guests learn about the rich history of the Calusa as well as new findings scientists are discovering about this ancient society. In addition, kayak tours that explore the winding mangrove creeks and backwaters are guided by Dexter Norris, biologist, naturalist and Mound House environmental educator. Conditions permitting, the tour includes a stop at Dog Key archaeological site.

Catch the full moon rising on a beautiful sunset tour and explore tidal creeks and winding mangrove tunnels extending into the hidden backwaters of Estero Bay. This unique tour offers a rare opportunity to experience the estuary in the quiet of twilight.

The tours are a fun and enlightening way to experience unspoiled nature of Southwest Florida today and imagine the Calusa people walking, fishing, and simply living in this same area more than 2,000 years ago. For details visit www.moundhouse.org

The Koreshan State Historic Site is now officially Koreshan State Park.

The park includes 11 buildings on the National Register of Historic places from the days of the Koreshan Unity, a colony led by Dr. Cyrus Teed in 1894. The group believed the universe existed in a hollow sphere and that Teed was the messiah.

While the history of the park remains the focus, the name emphasizes the park's recreational opportunities that include camping, a boat ramp, kayaking and canoe rentals and hiking trails. www.floridastateparks.org/park/Koreshan
